Hotsling Size Guide

Hotslings Size Guide

To measure from shoulder to hip:
use a soft tape measure and start at the outer corner of your shoulder and measure diagonally across your body down to your hip bone. The number (in inches) should be in the 20s.

Notes on fit:

Everyone is different. What they can and can't tolerate is largely preferential. Some people can wear more than one size and that's OK.

It's like going to the clothing store and being able to buy jeans in both a size 6 and a size 8. They both fit, maybe one's slightly looser.

Too Small: feels uncomfortably tight, digs into baby's legs, it's crazy hard to get baby in.

Too Big: baby feels insecure, your legs bump the baby as you walk, your back aches after a short time, sling slips off your shoulder.

DETAIL OF BUILT-IN INFANT INSERT

Built-in infant insert means you do not need to purchase the insert separately, and your baby can sit higher in the carrier, in a natural healthy position. Later on, when baby outgrows the need for insert, you simply place her into the main body compartment, and the insert lays flat against the body.

Inside panel is one of the most innovative features of Butterfly model. It enables you to pass baby to your spouse or another caregiver without removing baby from the carrier. It also makes back carries as easy as can be, even with a three month old!

Safety Features:

- * Inside panel keep baby securely inside carrier even when waist belt is open
- * Built-in infant insert keep infant secure inside the carrier
- * Having your baby in a seated position offers support to the thighs and back, and allows for healthy development of the hips, pelvis and spine
- * Baby's weight is distributed to your waist and across both shoulders
- * Baby is held close to your center of gravity, allowing for natural movement while walking and working
- * Side release buckles for versatility, adjustability and safety
- * Large padded leg openings avoid chafing baby's legs
- * No metal frames that can bump baby's head or frame joints that can pinch baby's fingers

Baby is secure even with waist belt open!
